Bananarama are moving house. After years up on the 11th floor of a block of flats in Holborn, the three girls have decided it's time to get their feet back firmly on the ground.

Now it's off to London's Kentish Town and a house (or to be more accurate – three houses) in the sun . . . But how will they handle this new domestic bliss? Can they all cook? Will there be any carpets?

No. 1 decided to set the three girls a domestic version of our famous Ms-Ms-&Ms game. . . .

& Ms

The rules: Paul Simper took each girl aside on her own and quizzed her about the other two.

Then he got all three together and each answered her own set of questions. Points were awarded for each correct answer, of course.

Can she cook eggs without breaking the yolk?

Siobhan: Yeah. She's a dab hand in the kitchen.

Sarah: She doesn't like eggs. She doesn't like the white membranes in them.

Keren's answer: Yes.

Sarah: You don't like eggs.

Keren: I came back on them yesterday.

Siobhan: A couple of times a week.

Sarah: Oh God! Every day.

Keren's answer: Twice a week.

Siobhan: (To Keren) I get a point because I knew you'd lie so I lied!

What will be her most prized possession in her new house?

Siobhan: She got a portable colour TV from her mum for Xmas – probably that.

Sarah: The mug rack her auntie gave her.

Does she do any exercises in the flat?

Siobhan: (Dirty laugh) Hurr! . . . No, she does occasionally but she's not devoted.

Sarah: She has the odd spurt.

Keren's answer: No. (On hearing the girls'

Siobhan: (Changing her mind) Me.

What would she do if she got a dirty phone call?

Siobhan: She used to get one. I think she tried finding out who it was and how he got the number and when she couldn't she hung up.

Sarah: She passed it on to me . . . (Then, reassuringly) I'm more experienced with that kind of thing. I just chatted him up and then Terry (Sarah's boyfriend) got on the Siobhan: I always make it for visitors.

Would she put a name plaque outside her house?

Siobhan: (Laughs) No, I doubt it.

Sarah: No. If she did it'd be 'Nonny Jean Woodward'. (Note: 'nonny' is apparently an ancient Bethnal Green phrase, the meaning of which has been lost in the mists of time.)

Keren's answer: No. If I did it would say 'Nonny-vent!'

Reactions:–

Paul: Bonus for Sarah for one word right.

Does she ever play her records too loud?

Siobhan: Yeah, but Sarah's the worst culprit for that.

Siobhan's answer: Once a week.

Reactions:-

Siobhan: (On hearing Keren's comments) Untrue.

Sarah: Well, there is a kitty . . . let's just say she's always last! She did buy some washing-up liquid though.

Siobhan's answer: No. The last thing I bought was washing-up liquid. I do tend to lag behind on the kitty.

Keren: A neutral colour like grey or beige.

It's all a lie. A vicious, cruel lie!

Will she spend much time decorating her new house?

Keren: Yeah.

ABOUT

Siobhan

Sarah: It smarts!

Keren: I'm afraid most of my answers will smart.

When was the last time she did the washing-up?

Keren: I can't remember. She might have slipped a small wash in during the week – if we're lucky.

Siobhan's answer: I'm toying with the idea of pale blue at the moment.

Reactions:-

Sarah and Keren: That's grey, innit?

Keren: She sings everywhere! Bill from downstairs is always complaining.

Sarah: Oh yes. High, piercing songs – everywhere.

Siobhan's answer: (Slightly embarrassed) Occasionally.

Does she ever leave all the lights on?

Keren: Yeah, she tends to go out and leave the fire blazing, the lights on, the TV – the whole darn lot!

Sarah: Lights, fire, video, music – everything. And when she falls asleep.

Siobhan's answer: (Innocently) Me? No, not really.

Reactions:-

Siobhan: (On hearing the others' answers)

Siobhan: (On hearing Sarah's compliment) Why, thank you!

Karen: Yeah, but we're both wrong!

What's her worst habit?

Keren: It's gotta be not cleaning up. Although she will insist when she answers this, 'I always clean the bathroom'.

Sarah: Going to empty the rubbish bins, breaking the bag and then leaving it for somebody else to clear up.

Siobhan's answer: Leaving pots to soak, perhaps?

Reactions:-

Siobhan: (On hearing the first part of Keren's answer) I always clean the bathroom.

Keren: Yeah! I told you – one bonus point!

Siobhan: (On Sarah's) Oh yes. I am a bit negligent with the bins.

Keren: She's never off it. But I don't mind because she always gets up in the morning to answer it and me and Sarah can lie in.

Reactions:-

Paul: Bonus to Keren for thoroughness. ■

Sarah's answer: Bacon and eggs.

Reactions:-

(Keren applauds then goes for a bonus . . .)

Sarah: (Roars with laughter) Cauliflower cheese.

Keren: There you go! One point and one bonus.

What was the last thing she bought for the flat?

Siobhan: I don't know. I guess I could chance my arm with Ajax.

Keren: Probably a bottle of washing-up liquid.

Sarah's answer: Gas.

Keren: What'd you buy gas for? I said washing-up liquid.

Siobhan: (Proudly) I bought that.

Keren: I didn't know that so I assumed Sarah bought it!

Will she have any pets in her new house?

Siobhan: We've all been toying with the idea of getting dogs but I don't think she plans to get one. So, no.

Keren: I dunno – that's all we do, sitting in front of the TV picking fault with people!

Sarah's answer: Max Bygraves.

Does she eat many chocolates?

Siobhan: She's not a chocolate girl, actually. When she does, I'd say she goes for ordinary bars.

Keren: Not many. She likes mini-rolls.

Sarah's answer: No. If I did I'd have Minstrels.

Siobhan: Hide in her bedroom!

Keren: Stand with her hands on her hips and tell them where to go.

Sarah's answer: Probably just stand there

Sarah: I didn't cower – I didn't even hear him that time.

Paul: Full point to Keren for accuracy; half to Siobhan.

Siobhan: We all have separate toothpaste. I'm sure she does though.

Keren: As far as I know, yeah. But she always squeezes her toothpaste from the middle.

Sarah's answer: Yes.

Reactions:-

Paul: And there's the chance of a bonus . . .

Keren: (Prompting) It's a complaint I get from Terry to do with the toothpaste tube.
